

HIPPA - Privacy of Information Policies

This form describes the confidentiality of your medical records, how the information is used, your rights, and how you may obtain this information.

Legal Duties

State and Federal laws require that we keep your medical records private. Such laws require that we provide you with this notice informing you of my privacy of information policies, your rights, and my duties. We are required to abide these policies until replaced or revised. We have the right to revise the privacy policies for all medical records, including records kept before policy changes are made. Any changes in this notice will be made available upon request before changes take place.

The contents of material disclosed to me in an evaluation, intake, or counseling session are covered by the law as private information. We respect the privacy of the information you provide us and abide by ethical and legal requirements of confidentiality and privacy of records.

Use of Information

Information about you may be used by us for diagnosis, treatment planning, treatment, and continuity of care. We may disclose it to health care providers who provide you with treatment with your permission and business associates affiliated with this clinic for billing.

Both verbal information and written records about a client cannot be shared with another party without the written consent of the client or the client's legal guardian or personal representative. It is our policy of this not to release any information about a client without a signed release of information except in certain emergency situations or exceptions in which client information can be disclosed to others without written consent. Some of these situations are noted below, and there may be other provisions provided by legal requirements.

Duty to Warn and Protect

When a client discloses intentions or a plan to harm another person or persons, the health care professional is required to warn the intended victim and report this information to legal authorities. In cases in which the client discloses or implies a plan for suicide, the health care professional is required to notify legal authorities and make reasonable attempts to notify the family of the client.

Public Safety

Health records may be released for the public interest and safety for public health activities, judicial and administrative proceedings, law enforcement purposes, serious threats to public safety, essential government functions, military, and when complying with worker's compensation laws.

Abuse

If a client states or suggests that he or she is abusing a child or vulnerable adult, or has recently abused a child or vulnerable adult, or a child (or vulnerable adult) is in danger of abuse, the health care professional is required to report this information to the appropriate social service and/or legal authorities. If a client is the victim of abuse, neglect, violence, or a crime victim, and their safety appears to be at risk, we may share this information with law enforcement officials to help prevent future occurrences and capture the perpetrator.

Prenatal Exposure to Controlled Substances

Health care professionals are required to report admitted prenatal exposure to controlled substances that are potentially harmful.

In the Event of a Client's Death

In the event of a client's death, the spouse or parents of a deceased client have a right to access their child's or spouse's records.

Professional Misconduct

Professional misconduct by a health care professional must be reported by other health care professionals. In cases in which a professional or legal disciplinary meeting is being held regarding the health care professional's actions, related records may be released in order to substantiate disciplinary concerns.

Judicial or Administrative Proceedings

Health care professionals are required to release records of clients when a court order has been placed.

Other Provisions

When payment for services are the responsibility of the client, or a person who has agreed to providing payment, and payment has not been made in a timely manner, collection agencies may be utilized in collecting unpaid debts. The specific content of the services (e.g., diagnosis, treatment plan, progress notes, testing) is not disclosed. If a debt remains unpaid it may be reported to credit agencies, and the client's credit report may state the amount owed, the time-frame, and the name of the clinic or collection agency.

Insurance companies, managed care, and other third-party payers are given information that they request regarding services to the client. Information which may be requested includes type of services, dates/times of services, diagnosis, treatment plan, description of impairment, progress of therapy, and summaries.

Information about clients may be disclosed in consultations with other professionals in order to provide the best possible treatment i.e. psychiatrists prescribing medications. In such cases your permission to talk with the other professional will be requested.

In the event in which the clinic or mental health professional must telephone the client for purposes such as appointment cancellations or reminders, or to give/receive other information, efforts are made to preserve confidentiality. Please notify me in writing where I may reach you by phone and how you would like me to identify myself. For example, you might request that when I phone you at home or work, I do not say my name or the nature of the call, but rather the mental health professional's first name only. If this information is not provided to me (below), I will adhere to the following procedure when making phone calls: First I will ask to speak to the client (or guardian) without identifying my name. If the person answering the phone asks for more identifying information I will say that it is a personal call. If I reach an answering machine or voice mail I will follow the same guidelines.
